February 2016

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ;

Lent begins February 10, on Ash Wednesday. Lent was originally a time of preparation for Baptismal candidates, and a time for penitence and reflection. Our readings will remind us that discipleship is a matter of taking up one's cross and following Jesus. We are reminded of the Covenant our God has made with us, acting on our behalf, giving us the commandments, offering for the world its' salvation and showing us that the way for the world's salvation is through the death and Resurrection of the Jesus the Christ.

As we worship and live through these six weeks of Lent, we realize, as always, that in our Northern Hemisphere winter turns to spring, bringing new life to our earth. This new life is a very visible sign of the promise God makes with us of new life in the resurrection. As we wait patiently through this winter, we wait to witness the new life that God will bring to us.

Spring will bring a freedom from the extremes of this winter, a freedom, we hope, from ice, frozen mix of precipitation, some snow, and as I write this, biting strong cold wind. We eagerly wait to see new growth in our gardens and fields as it emerges from the frozen dormant state into the growth of grass and early spring bulbs and flowering shrubs and trees.

So too, Lent prepares us to live anew in the Baptismal Covenant we have made with our Lord. This covenant enables us to live lives that reflect new growth that is possible only because God loves us so much that he gave Jesus his son to be our sacrifice, to become the 'new covenant.' This new growth from our God comes at every age, whether we are continuing to grow careers, or whether we are looking at retirement, slowing down and down-sizing our habitats.

I urge you to enter the Lenten discipline of Alms Giving, Fasting, and Prayer as we begin this Lenten Season. Our Gracious God supplies our needs in so many ways; the discipline of Lent is a way in which we can look again at the new person God intends us to be.

Wednesday evenings give us the opportunity mid week to Worship God, and to be in community and communion together. Evening worship, upstairs in the sanctuary, will follow a meal of soup and bread. This will be a time to be together as family, to be God's family in a unique way that feeds body, mind, and spirit; restores, refreshes, and acknowledges that we are all dependent on God through Christ.

In a world where sin and secrets bind, in a world which seems to promote the individual over family and community, in a world which promotes half-truths, more stuff, and personal kingdom over God's dominion, where violence erupts unexpectedly and fear is present in new ways, Lent is a time for this family of God to gather together, to share a simple sufficient meal, and then to worship and pray to God together. Through these times of Lent, we can realize love, grace, forgiveness, through Christ, and we can receive renewal of spirit, and strength for the journey.

In His Service,

Pastor Lois

A STEWARDSHIP MINUTE

*Written by S. William Snover, MD
Financial Secretary*

"Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and comes down from the Father..." James 1:17

Spend a few minutes and read the first two chapters of James. The reading teaches us that if we are doing what God has called us to do, then our time, talent, energy and treasure should be used to bless others; to make the world a better place for family, friends, neighbors, and more importantly for strangers and for all in need. God calls us to share our abundance, unselfishly. It is through giving that we receive and grow in God's promises.

LENT

Lent had its origins in the church first in its preparations for the great Pascha, a great festival of Saturday into Sunday in which the passion and resurrection of Christ was commemorated.

By the early Third Century, this festival was expanded to become Holy week. During that time, there was fasting and the celebration of Saturday into Sunday, the Paschal Feast, Easter. This week then extended into six weeks, the Forty Days of preparation of candidates for baptism at Easter.

In the Fifth Century, Good Friday and Holy Saturday were separated from the Easter event and were also days of preparatory fasting. This made six weeks of six days each. (Sundays are never considered fast days, Sundays are always Feast Days.)

In the Sixth Century, the four week days before the First Sunday in Lent were added to the calendar of Lent, bringing the total number of the days of Lent to 40.

By the Seventh Century, the Wednesday before the First Sunday in Lent was called, 'the beginning of the fast'.

As the Centuries passed, and after the Reformation, many Protestants kept this calendar for Lent but fasting became a matter of personal discipline, although Good Friday fast was nearly always kept as a day of fasting.

The Lenten discipline of giving alms, fasting and prayer is still to be desired. Alms giving is not just the giving of money, but giving of ourselves, our time, and even our financial resources for others in order that they might see the goodness of the Lord.

Fasting is a personal discipline in which we decide what it is that we can do without in our indulgent society. It does not always have to take the form of giving up food alone. Each of us should examine our lives and determine what it is that draws us away from God's commands and God's love.

The discipline of Prayer is one which we should all have, but perhaps in Lent this discipline could be expanded in order that we might understand with new awareness what this season prepares us to witness and how we are to respond to the awesome gift of Jesus the Christ.

Imposition of Ashes comes from the Sixth Century in Gaul where ashes were sprinkled on the heads of penitents. In the Tenth and Eleventh Centuries, the custom was that the faithful would voluntarily receive ashes on their forehead as a sign of penitence and as a reminder of their mortality. In the Twelfth Century it became a rule that the ashes were to be obtained by burning the palm branches left over from the previous year's Palm Sunday celebration.
